JUDAH TAKEN CAPTIVE

LESSON TEXT—II Kings 25:1-21.

GOLDEN TEXT—Righteousness exalteth a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people.

PRIMARY TOPIC—A Nation That Forgot God.

JUNIOR TOPIC—A Nation That Forgot God.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Paying the Price of Sinning.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—National Accountability to God.

Zedekiah was made king of Judah by the king of Babylon (II Kings 24:17), but in spite of this kindness and the word of the Lord spoken to him by Jeremiah (Jer. 34:17, 18, cf. Jer. 52:3), he rebelled against the king of Babylon. He relied upon the help of Egypt, but all that Egypt could do was to cause temporary interruption of the siege of Jerusalem.

I. The Siege of Jerusalem (vv. 1-3).

1. The time (vv. 1, 2).

It began on the tenth day of the tenth month of the ninth year of Zedekiah's reign and lasted about eighteen months. The tenth month, according to the Jewish calendar, corresponds to our December, January, as their calendar year began about the middle of March. The reason the exact time is given is that this was to be an event of great importance to the Jews in their exile.

2. The method (v. 1). Nebuchadnezzar came with a large army and encamped against Jerusalem and built forts against it round about. It is thought that siege walls were built around the city, shutting it in. On the tops of these walls forts were built from which missiles of destruction could be hurled by their engines of war against the city.

3. The famine (v. 3).

Gekle says, "It was speedily followed, as is always the case, with an outbreak of pestilence. Food was well-nigh gone. There had long been no bread. Mothers were at last driven to murder and eat their children. The richest citizens wandered about searching for scraps in the dung hills." It is estimated that one-third of the people of Jerusalem died of starvation.

II. Zedekiah's Flight and Fate (vv. 4-7).

1. "The city was broken up" (v. 4). The Chaldeans had succeeded in making an opening in the wall so large that they could make their way into the city in spite of all that the Hebrews could do.

2. Zedekiah's flight (v. 4).

The king with his men of war fled by night toward the plain. His object no doubt was to cross the Jordan at Jericho and hide in the mountains east of the river.

3. Zedekiah's fate (vv. 5-7).

(1) He was overtaken in the plains of Jericho (v. 5). When his flight was discovered, the Chaldean army pursued and captured him. (2) He was brought to the king of Babylon at Riblah (v. 6), a town north of Damascus. It was the king's headquarters from which he directed his armies against Tyre and Jerusalem. Zedekiah was tried as a criminal before Nebuchadnezzar. (3) His fate (v. 7). His sons were slain in his sight; his eyes were put out; he was bound with fetters of brass and they carried him to Babylon where he remained prisoner until the day of his death (Jer. 52:11).

III. Jerusalem Destroyed (vv. 8-10).

The dismantling of the city was delayed a month, perhaps awaiting the directions from Nebuchadnezzar, who was at Riblah.

1. They burnt of the house of the Lord (v. 9).

This was the sacred temple built by Solomon, with additions and modifications. Before burning it was despoiled of all its sacred contents.

2. Burnt the king's house (v. 9).

This was doubtless the palace built by Solomon.

3. Burnt all the houses of Jerusalem (v. 9).

The implication is that the common houses were left for the people (v. 12).

4. They broke down the walls of Jerusalem.

IV. The Disposition of the Temple Furniture and Priests (vv. 13-21).

1. The temple furniture (vv. 13-17).

The pillars of brass and the brazen sea were broken into pieces by the Babylonians and were carried to Babylon.

2. Certain officers and priests (vv. 18-21).

Certain officers, priests and three-score men were taken to Riblah by the king of Babylon, and were slain.

From Small Beginnings

Prayer brings God into what men are pleased to term the little affairs of life. The lives of people are made up of these small matters; yet how often do great consequences come from small beginnings!—E. M Bounds.

Color-Blind Towards God

Man is color-blind towards God. The blue of God's truth is to him an aweinspiring sweep of sky. The soft, soothing green of His love becomes a noisy, irritating yellow.—Dr. S. D. Gordon.

ROCKS NEWS

Quite a storm here Saturday P. M., rain, accompanied by hail large enough to make holes in leaves and strip the corn fodder.

A number of our young people have gone into the bee industry. We trust they will be successful.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Dinkins, accompanied by Misses Gertrude and Annie Ransom, spent some time in Lynchburg last week.

News reaches us that the farmers of New Holland are planning to put 5000 acres in beans this season and had 900 little pigs from 1 to 4 weeks old.

Mr. Andie Anderson is sick.

Mr. and Mrs. Ned Almond were to see Mr. Anderson last Sunday.

Mrs. Mary Martin is confined to her bed but we hope she will soon be out again.

Miss Mamie Joe Cawthiotti, of Lynchburg, spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Cawthon.

Misses Myrle Dinkins, Emma Ransom and Laura Inge spent Sunday with Mrs. Walter Ransom.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Simmons — a 9 pound girl.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Mexican Rebels Beaten and Slaughtered at Reforma; Wisconsin Votes Wet.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

MEXICO'S revolution, or at least a great portion of it, was drowned in an ocean of blood last week, if federal statements are reliable. The rebel army of General Escobar, commander in chief of the movement, having been driven for miles by the troops of Gen. Juan Almazan, concentrated in the city of Jiminez, Chihuahua, and for several days fought desperately to hold the place. They were well entrenched and Almazan gives them credit for extreme bravery. But the assaults of the federal infantry, artillery, cavalry and air forces were too much for them and they withdrew from the city to Reforma, 12 miles away. General Serrato's cavalry, meanwhile, was hurried to the north of Reforma and there destroyed all the bridges and culverts, and when Almazan's air scouts reported that the rebels could retreat no further, he ordered an attack in full force. Escobar and other rebel generals saw they were trapped and fled, leaving their infantry to fight alone. These men took refuge behind their troop trains and the battle there was described by Almazan as the bloodiest in years of Mexican history. Neither side asked or gave quarter and the slaughter was "tremendous." The rebel dead covered the battlefield, and many hundreds of their wounded fell into the hands of the federals.

The entire action, which began at Corralitos on March 31 and ended in the smashing victory at Reforma, was declared by the federal commander to be decisive. In his report to General Calles he praised highly the work of all branches of his army, and also paid a compliment to Escobar's military ability. He knows and therefore defines the rebels, at last accounts, were still carrying on. The aviators in raids over the federal fortifications at Naco created a lot of excitement by dropping two or three bombs on the American side of the international boundary, one of them injuring an American motion picture man. This and the possibility of similar incidents gave considerable concern to the State department in Washington. Mexican federal troops held at Nogales, Texas, after their retreat across the border when the rebels captured Juarez, were ordered released by President Hoover at the request of the Mexican government.

PROHIBITION in its many ramifications insists on holding a place on the front page every day. Yesterday the voting population of Wisconsin went to the polls and by a majority of about 2 to 1 directed the state legislature to repeal the state dry enforcement laws and to remove the penalty on 2.75 per cent beer. The vets naturally were jubilant but the dry leaders were not dismayed and asserted that the referendum was "futile." They held that the drys carried a majority of the counties, and that the legislators were bound to follow the wishes of their constituents rather than of the state as a whole. Should both houses pass a repeal measure it would place Gov. Walter J. Kohler in a delicate position. He indorsed President Hoover's prescription of "concurrent enforcement of prohibition by states." If he should sign or veto the bill he would alienate either wet or dry backing.

CONGRESSMAN M. ALFRED MICHAELSON of Chicago, a professed dry, who was indicted at Jacksonville, Fla., last October on charges of bringing a trunkful of liquor into the country from Cuba, surrendered to the federal authorities in Chicago and gave bond for his appearance for trial in Key West in May. He declined to be interviewed but denied the charges.

In the case of Congressman William M. Morgan of Ohio, also a dry and also involved in liquor charges, a peculiar situation has arisen. United States Attorney Tuttle of New York, investigating the story that Morgan brought four bottles of liquor from Panama, was told by the customs agents that the Ohioan admitted that the bottles were in his baggage but refused to open his trunks, demanding the right of free entry. This was granted him by Deputy Collector H. G. Stuart, who was not told of the presence of the booze. The agents said Morgan threatened to "raise h—l in Washington" if his baggage was not passed without examination. Since the agents did not see the bottles and Mrs. Morgan, who was with her husband cannot testify against him, it may be the only process to suffer, if any, will be certain custom officials.

200 CHINESE ON GOOD-WILL TOUR

Coming to U. S. to Promote Friendship.

Shanghai.—Upwards of 200 prominent Chinese will sail August 24 on the President Cleveland for an extended tour of the United States in the interests of Sino-American friendship and trade. The project is being promoted by the Friendship Tour company.

All first-class accommodations have been reserved for the party on the Dollar liner, and a special train has been arranged for their itinerary through America. Leading hotels in the cities along the contemplated route have made preparations for the travelers and every possible measure for their comfort has been taken by the agents for the tour.

Cities in which the party will stop are as follows: Seattle, Portland, Minneapolis, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Akron, Buffalo, New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Kansas City, Denver, Los Angeles and San Francisco. The larger commercial and industrial concerns in each city will be inspected by the tourists. Side trips will be taken to Yellowstone National park, Niagara Falls and the Grand Canyon of Colorado.

To assist those who do not speak any language other than Chinese a staff of interpreters and guides have been engaged to accompany the visitors. A representative of the Chinese press and a moving picture cameraman will be along to convey back to China the high lights of the journey.

African Wild Boars to Make Sport in Texas

Kingsville, Texas.—One of the most novel experiments with wild life ever attempted in Texas is to be made upon the 1,250,000-acre ranch which belongs to the estate of the late Mrs. Henrietta M. King.

There lately arrived at the ranch a shipment of three wild boars, a male and two females, from Africa, and they have been turned loose in the chaparral of the big grazing domain with the idea that they will take up with droves of javelinas, or wild musk hogs, that make the big ranch their habitat.

The African wild boars are larger than the native javelinas and are different in other respects. The javelinas are marked by a brown band around their shoulders and by a musk sack from which an almost overpowering odor emanates when the animal is angered.

Even if it proved that the wild hogs from Africa will not cross with the javelinas it is expected that the imported stock will multiply rapidly and that in a few years they will afford fine sport for hunters.

The wild African boars are ferocious and dangerous, but no more so than the javelina boars.

Upon the ranches of South Texas javelinas roam by the thousands and breed droves. They are a constant menace to deer hunters because they put up a fight whenever they encounter a human being. It is the common practice for a hunter when he comes upon a drove of javelinas to climb the nearest tree and there await the opportunity to come from camp and rescue him.

Former Citizens Hold "Ghost" Town Reunion

Traver, Calif.—One of California's best-known "ghost" towns returned to life here with a population of approximately 500 citizens for one day, when former residents came from as far north as Sacramento and as far south as Los Angeles.

"Citizens" is the proper word to describe the returning population, for all of the 500 persons were former residents, gathered in reunion. It was the forty-fifth anniversary of the founding of Traver, once a 1,000 population center of a great grain and horticultural area.

Every building in the town has disappeared. The last to go was the Del Monte hotel, burned to the ground last year, together with a little store.

Alkali was responsible for Traver's demise as a municipality. The chemical came to the surface with irrigation, killing grain, orchards and vineyards.

Gets Drunk in Jail

Spencer, Iowa.—It's bad enough to get drunk in Iowa, but to get intoxicated in the county jail, while being held for investigation, and then be released on bond, and today Harry Nelson and "Red" Welch are spending 30-day sentences because of it.

Old Ironsides Work Over Half Completed

Boston, Mass.—Famed Old Ironsides, the frigate that made history, soon will ride the seas again. The work of restoring the Constitution, now in progress at the Boston navy yard, is more than 50 per cent completed, and before the end of the year the vessel will be fit for service.

Thus far, $687,000 has been collected to cover the expense of rebuilding the historic craft. It is estimated the total cost will be $934,000.

Middle Life Troubles

"About twenty years ago my health was very bad," says Mrs. Mat Howard, of Terrell, Texas. "I was passing through a critical time in my life, and I suffered a great deal. I was not at all strong, and my nerves got all upset. I had fot flashes, and sometimes would get suddenly so faint I could not stand up. My head would whirl, and I could not walk. I would have to lie down for hours at a time. "I improved so much after I had taken Cardui for a while. I continued the medicine for some months, until I had passed the critical period. Since then, I have given Cardui to my five daughters. All of them have continued the use of Cardui in their homes. We have all been better for having taken it."

Mrs. E. E. McClenny entertained the Bible Study Circle in her hospitable home last Tuesday. Mrs. H. L. Reeves was leader. The first 5 chapters of John were studied. The hostess was assisted by her daughter in serving delightful refreshments.

Chemist Figure Out Weight of One Hair

Seattle, Wash.—Albert Jacobson, city chemist, has a pair of new scales and has ate a few of the calculations he has worked out with his latest plaything:

A strand of human hair long enough to encircle the world at the equator would weigh 750 pounds.

The ordinary domestic variety of pin weighs .02475975 ounce.

The ordinary 2-cent postage stamp is lighter than the ar mail stamp, the weights respectively being .01257324 ounce and .00505 ounce.

The ordinary human hair, one inch long, weighs .00002 gram or .0000070866 ounce.

POLICE HELPED AS DRUG CHEATS DEATH

Holdup Suspect, Wounded in Fight, Dies Twice.

Detroit, Mich.—John Jones, a negro, twenty-two years old, suspected of being a holdup man, was shot as he dived out of an alley in a running battle with the police, and died twice.

He was removed to the receiving hospital, where he died before the police could question him and secure information regarding holdups which they were sure he could furnish.

Death had cheated the law, for dead men tell no tales.

Science then stepped in and cheated death. Dr. Courtney Fremont, a member of the hospital staff, injected a charge of adrenalin into the heart muscle of the man who had been dead about half an hour and he came back to life. He lived for five hours, giving the police ample time in which to question him and secure such information as he was willing to give. He then died again.

Victory of Science.

The shooting and double death of Jones took place several weeks ago, but passed practically unnoticed as a news item. As a shooting and single death it was just one more item in the grist of crime news that passes daily out of the police department. The scientific angle, however, became a matter of medical record and as such it has survived as another almost unbelievable victory of science.

Bringing persons back from the grave to live again is no longer a novelty. It has been done scores of times. When the miracle was first performed it received much publicity. It seemed as if there must be some fake about it and, of course, newspapers could not be victimized by fakers, so the stories were published with numerous qualifications lodged about all statements. Now that it has become well established as a bona fide miracle of science it does not possess quite the novelty it did at first, and even spectacular events such as the Detroit incident pass almost unnoticed.

Baby Brought to Life.

The first case on record in which a baby born dead was brought back to life occurred in a Brooklyn hospital. Mrs. Bertha Isaacson gave birth to twins, a boy and a girl, at the Boro Park Maternity hospital. The boy, weighing three pounds, was born dead. The girl weighed two and a half pounds. Dr. Philip Minsberg administered adrenalin to the boy by hypodermic injection. It stimulated the infant's heart to action and life returned.

Both infants were fed with a medicine dropper and were raised in an incubator until they had attained sufficient growth. The boy who was brought back to life is still alive, but his sister died before reaching her fourth birthday. They were born on Lincoln's birthday, 1925. Since then the miracle has been repeated scores of times in Brooklyn as well as elsewhere throughout the country.

In Philadelphia a few years ago a man of forty who had suffered from tuberculosis half his life died. Twelve doctors gathered around his bed and for an hour applied every known test for a sign of life, without finding any. At the end of two hours rigor mortis had set in. A small amount of adrenalin was then injected into the heart.

At the end of two minutes the skin assumed a pink tinge which gradually changed to a flesh color. Ten minutes later the man was breathing faintly. His eyelids fluttered and he sighed as though awakening from sleep.

"How do you feel?" the man was asked.

"All right," he answered in a tired but very ordinary tone.

"Did you have any dreams?"

"No. I slept." His tired eyes closed. "No unusual sensation?"

"No."

Shortly afterward he returned to an upending dreamless sleep.

2 Years in Death Cell Used to Educate Self

Columbus, Ohio.—The other day Sabo observed the second anniversary of his incarceration in "death row." His attorneys have tried in vain to save him. When Sabo was "dressed in" two years ago he could neither read nor speak English. Now he speaks fluently.

His tutors were companions in "death row"—18 of them—who have paid society's capital penalty. Sabo can read well, too, and he spends most of his time poring through the Bible and other religious books.

Educator to Translate Book of 6,175 Pages

Crawfordsville, Ind.—Prof. C. H. Oldfather, formerly of the Wabash college faculty here, now with the University of Nebraska, has been commissioned to translate the "Diodorus of Sicily," which will run about 13 volumes, a total of 6,175 pages. The commission was given by the Loeb classical library. Diodorus has never been translated into English, Professor Oldfather says. He is an original writer but also is an important authority for several periods in ancient history.
